

Military Portability License Renewal Attestation (RN, LPN, ARNP)

In order to renew your Washington state military portability license, you must continue to meet the requirements within federal law, 50 USC 4025a: Portability of professional licenses of servicemembers and their spouses. Requirements include holding an active covered RN, LPN, or ARNP license in another state. This covered license in another state must remain active and in good standing. The standards of practice, discipline, and fulfillment of any continuing education requirements for Washington state must also continue to be met.

Please note, the federal law pertaining to military portability also states, "If a service member or spouse of a service member is licensed and able to operate in multiple jurisdictions through an interstate licensure compact, with respect to services provided in the jurisdiction of the interstate licensure compact by a licensee covered by such compact, the service member or spouse of a service member shall be subject to the requirements of the compact or the applicable provisions of law of the applicable State and not this section."

Please complete the attestation below and email a copy of the attestation and current military orders to nursing@doh.wa.gov.

I attest that I hold an active, unencumbered RN, LPN, or ARNP license in another state.

AND

I attest that I have met the continuing education requirements required for this license type in Washington state.

AND

I attest that I do not hold an active multistate RN or LPN license in another state. Under federal law, any interstate licensure compact supersedes the provisions of the military portability law.
